- (ii) By mutual agreement, measures may include but shall not be limited to leave without pay, a temporary reduction in hours or alternative duties.
- (iii) The provisions above shall not limit the rights nor entitlements of the employee or employer under other relevant clauses of the award, and Clause 2 - Disputes and Grievance Procedures of this Part.

2. DISPUTES AND GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

(a) Employee Grievance

Any employee grievance other than that arising from the employer's concern about an employee's work performance or conduct shall be dealt with in the following manner:

- (i) in the first instance, the employee shall attempt to resolve the grievance with his/her immediate supervisor or employer;
- (ii) where such an attempt at settlement has failed, or where the grievance is of such a nature that direct discussion with the immediate supervisor would be inappropriate, the employee may notify an authorised representative of the union. The union may take the matter up with the employer and a meeting shall be arranged to take place as soon as practical after notification to the employer of the grievance.

(b) Employee Counselling and Disciplinary Procedures

Employer concerns about work performance or conduct shall be dealt with in accordance with subclause (c) of this clause. PROVIDED that procedures established by an employer shall be deemed to satisfy the provisions of this clause where such procedures:

- (i) are consistent with the principles of natural justice, i.e. the employee is made aware of the concern and the required change in conduct or performance; given a reasonable opportunity to improve conduct or performance and the review of conduct or performance is fair;
- (ii) clearly identify the person or persons with the authority to address such concerns;
- (iii) provide for representation by the appropriate union if requested by the employee;
- (iv) provide for work performance or conduct counselling in the event of any employer concern;
- (v) provide for a written warning where disciplinary action or termination is proposed;

- (vi) provide for discussion between a representative of the appropriate union if requested by the employee/s and of management if the matter can not be otherwise resolved, and if not settled, referral to the Tasmanian Industrial Commission.
- (c) Employee Counselling
  - (i) First Meeting

Where the employer has serious concerns about the work performance or conduct of an employee, an authorised representative of the employer shall notify the employee in advance that he/she wishes to counsel the employee. A counselling session shall be conducted on a one-to-one basis, or otherwise as appropriate, at a mutually convenient time as soon as practical.
  - (ii) At such a counselling session, the employer's representative shall outline the employer's concerns. Where it is agreed that a problem exists, the meeting shall attempt to reach an agreement on action to resolve the problem and where appropriate a timetable for review of the action taken. The parties shall separately or jointly prepare (as soon as possible) a record of the relevant facts and outcome of the meeting, to be placed on the employee's personnel file.

This record and all information concerning the discussions, except the outcome of the meeting, shall remain strictly confidential between the parties attending the meeting (except by agreement of all parties). The employee's personnel file shall be kept in a secure place and shall be accessible to all parties present at the meeting.
  - (iii) Where the union notifies the employer's representative that in its view such further counselling session/s are not appropriate, it may seek a meeting with the representative in lieu of the counselling session/s, to take place as soon as practical. The meeting shall consist of an equal number of one or two representatives of each party, unless otherwise agreed.
  - (iv) Second Meeting

Where it is agreed that action taken to deal with the problem should be reviewed or where after a reasonable period (normally four weeks) the employer still has serious concerns about the same matter, a further counselling session or meeting shall take place as above.
  - (v) Where the concerns relate to allegations of harassment or intimidation on the basis of age, gender, ethnicity, sexuality or physical disability, subclause (iv) shall not apply.

(d) Disputes Concerning a Written Warning

(i) Written Warning

Where the above procedure does not resolve the employer's concerns and where the employer believes that disciplinary action or termination is justified, the employer shall give the employee a written warning.

The warning shall:

- (1) outline the employer's concerns and the facts relied on to justify the warning;
  - (2) outline the change in conduct or performance required;
  - (3) give the employee a reasonable and specified period to change performance or conduct; and
  - (4) outline the action proposed if conduct or performance is not changed.
  - (5) Include a copy of this clause. A copy of the warning sent promptly to the union office, in the case of union member, if requested by the employee.
- (ii) Where such a written warning has been provided to the union, the employer shall give the union reasonable opportunity to meet with the employer to discuss any concerns the union may have relating to the warning before dismissal action is taken, provided employer decision-making on dismissal is not unduly delayed. Such meeting shall normally comprise a balanced number of employer and union representatives. At that meeting the parties shall make a genuine attempt to resolve the problem other than by dismissal.

(e) Disciplinary Action and Termination of Employment

Except in circumstances justifying summary dismissal, no action shall be taken by the employer to discipline or terminate the employment of the employee on the grounds of employee performance or conduct unless the procedures in this clause have first been followed.

- (f) While the above procedure is being followed work shall continue as normal where it is agreed that there is an existing custom or practice. No party shall be prejudiced as to the final settlement by continuation of work in accordance with this subclause.

Nothing in this procedure shall restrict the employer's right to summarily dismiss an employee where this is justified.

- (g) In the event that conciliation between the employer and the employee, or/and the union fails to resolve the dispute, either party may refer the matter to the Tasmanian Industrial Commission.

3. STRUCTURAL EFFICIENCY AND ENTERPRISE FLEXIBILITY

- (c) The parties commit themselves to the development of career paths in the industry and a system of advancement based upon skills acquisition and enhancement, and will continue to co-operate in the development of training and other measures to introduce such a system.
- (d) The parties are prepared to discuss all structural efficiency matters raised by employers and employees in any individual work site covered by the award, and agreements in accordance with the provisions of this award may be concluded, subject to the following conditions:
  - (i) the employee/s affected by the change must genuinely agree to the change;
  - (ii) the agreement taken as a whole shall not confer a lesser benefit to any employee than is available under the award;
  - (iii) at the request of union members, the relevant union or unions shall be advised by the employer of the intention to commence discussions with employees on an agreement under this clause; and
  - (iv) the relevant union shall not unreasonably oppose any agreement.
- (e) Any such agreement shall be signed by the parties being the employer and the employee/s, and, as applicable, the union/s, and contain the following:
  - (i) the term of the agreement;
  - (ii) the parties covered by the agreement;
  - (iii) the classes of employees covered by the agreement;
  - (iv) the means by which a party may retire from the agreement;

This document is translated from the original order and is not in itself a legal document. No responsibility is taken for any discrepancy that may arise between this document and the order that was printed and published by the Printing Authority of Tasmania.
